RISK FACTORS

(a) The risk factor entitled “(b) Canadian Consumer Debt and the Housing Market” on page 24 of the Base Prospectus is deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

“(b) Canadian Consumer Debt and the Housing Market

The latest household debt-to-income ratio data reflects a continued downward trend that started in the third quarter 2022. It is below pre-pandemic levels due to growth in disposable income and slower debt growth. Mortgage debt continues to trend at historically high levels, while non-mortgage debt-to-income and service ratios remain at historically low levels as clients maintain low utilization and high payment rates. Mortgage service ratios could see further increases as mortgages continue to renew at higher rates, and income growth decelerates from a slowing labor market.

2023 and 2024 year-to-date property sale volumes have slowed to 2018/2019 levels. Sustained high interest rates will maintain pressure on sales and mortgage growth that will put denominator pressure on serious arrears rates, as delinquencies rise from fiscal 2021-2022 cohorts maturing. Unemployment rates at current levels could elevate non-mortgage debt levels, as well as unsecured delinquency and loss rates, typical of the credit cycle. Effective November 1, 2023, OSFI revised its Capital Adequacy Requirements and Mortgage Insurer Capital Adequacy Test guidelines, resulting in an increase to RWA for mortgages that have been in negative amortization for three consecutive months with loan-to-value over 65%.

These factors may have adverse impacts on CIBC's business, results of operations, reputation and financial condition. Further information on this risk can be found in the section entitled "Real estate secured personal lending" at page 66 of CIBC's 2023 Annual Report and at pages 33-34 of CIBC's Second Quarter 2024 Report to Shareholders, each incorporated by reference in this Base Prospectus."

- (b) The risk factor entitled "(d) Climate Risk" on pages 25-26 of the Prospectus is deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

"(d) Climate Risk

On March 13, 2024, the Canadian Sustainability Standards Board released proposed Canadian Sustainability Disclosure Standards ("CSDS") 1 "General Requirements for Disclosure of Sustainability-related Financial Information" and CSDS 2 "Climate-related Disclosures" for consultation, which align with the International Sustainability Standards Board's inaugural standards IFRS S1 "General Requirements for Disclosure of Sustainability-related Financial Information" ("IFRS S1") and IFRS S2 "Climate-related Disclosures" ("IFRS S2"). The proposals include certain Canadian-specific modifications to the effective dates and transition relief of IFRS S1 and IFRS S2, including the deferral of the initial application by one year to CIBC's reporting period ending October 31, 2026, to the extent that the proposed CSDS become effective in Canada.

On March 20, 2024, OSFI published updates to Guideline B-15 on Climate Risk Management ("Guideline B-15"), to align its minimum mandatory climate-related financial disclosure expectations with IFRS S2. OSFI is expected to continue to review Guideline B-15 as practices and standards evolve. Guideline B-15 continues to be initially effective for CIBC for the reporting period ended October 31, 2024 for certain disclosure elements.

For additional information, please see the risk factor entitled "Environmental, Social and Governance Risk" below in this Base Prospectus."

- (c) The risk factor entitled "(f) Commodity Price Risk" on page 27 of the Prospectus is deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

"(f) Commodity Price Risk

Commodity prices can experience significant volatility due to a variety of factors that affect supply and demand fundamentals. These include, but are not limited to, the current economic environment, geopolitical risk, market liquidity, financial speculators, seasonality and weather, and the transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy. Current areas of focus for CIBC include the potential for the conflict in the Middle East and the war in Ukraine to disrupt the supply and transportation of oil, gas and agricultural products. The impact on inflation and central bank policy is also in focus. Although CIBC monitors its exposure to changes in commodity prices and has risk mitigants to control for this exposure, fluctuating commodity prices could have adverse impacts on banking activities. Further information related to this risk can be found in the "Commodity Prices" section on page 56 of CIBC's 2023 Annual Report and on page 29 of CIBC's Second Quarter 2024 Report to Shareholders, incorporated by reference in this Base Prospectus."

- (d) The risk factor entitled “(m) Tax Reform” on pages 30 is deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

“(m) Tax Reform

The Canadian federal government has released tax proposals that would impact CIBC if enacted. On November 28, 2023, the Canadian federal government tabled Bill C-59 in Parliament, which includes draft legislation to implement certain tax measures from the 2023 fall economic statement and 2023 federal budget. Bill C-59 includes a revised proposed denial of the dividends received deduction for Canadian shares held as mark-to-market property, as well as a 2% tax on certain share buy backs. The proposed application date for these measures is January 1, 2024. Bill C-59 was not substantively enacted as at April 30, 2024, and is therefore not reflected in the reported income tax expense for the quarter and six months ended April 30, 2024.

On May 28, 2024, Parliament completed third reading of Bill C-59. As a result, the proposal to deny the dividends received deduction for banks was substantively enacted as of that date and will be reflected in the reported income tax expense for the third quarter ended July 31, 2024.

On May 2, 2024, the Canadian federal government tabled Bill C-69 for first reading in Parliament. Bill C-69 includes certain provisions of the Canadian federal budget tabled on April 16, 2024, as well as a revised GMTA, which differs in part from the Global Minimum Tax Act (“GMTA”) released by the Canadian federal government on August 4, 2023. The GMTA would implement rules in Canada for a 15% global minimum tax regime as part of Canada’s agreement to adopt the OECD Pillar Two regime for a global minimum tax. More than 135 OECD member countries have agreed to adopt the regime. Pillar Two rules are in different stages of adoption globally. Certain countries in which CIBC operates have enacted Pillar Two legislation, however, the legislation is not yet in effect in those countries. In order to meet OECD’s recommended timing, the GMTA is expected to be enacted in 2024 and with application as of CIBC’s 2025 fiscal year. CIBC is currently reviewing the latest draft of the GMTA in Bill C-69 and evaluating its impact on its global operations, which impact is not reasonably estimable at this time. Further information may be found in the “Financial performance overview – Taxes” and “Accounting and control matters – Accounting developments” sections of CIBC’s 2023 Annual Report, Note 19 to CIBC’s 2023 audited consolidated financial statements in its 2023 Annual Report and in the “Accounting and control matters – Accounting developments” section of CIBC’s Second Quarter 2024 Report to Shareholders and Note 11 to CIBC’s comparative unaudited interim consolidated financial statements in its Second Quarter 2024 Report to Shareholders, each of which as incorporated by reference in this Prospectus.”

GENERAL INFORMATION

The paragraph entitled “Significant or Material Adverse Change” in the section entitled “General Information” found at page 462 of the Base Prospectus is deleted and replaced with the following:
